For 18 years now, it continues empowering elementary, high school and college students and even professionals to become most effective citizens of our country by providing them opportunities in leadership, community service and exchange and builds leadership through education and action.

SYL believes that through our youth and our teachers we will see the future of our country and through their good deeds we will prosper as one nation. It believes that education is the backbone of our economy and it needs greater partnership and collaboration with other institutions to empower the Filipino Youth to become better citizens of our country by providing them opportunities in leadership, community service and social action. It believes in the ripples of modest beginnings that societal transformation must start from within and that involves training and awakening of the self; given the chance and guidance, one can become an agent of change for God and country.

Saceda Youth Lead will be an Affiliate Member of the United Nations World Tourism Organizations in 2016 (affiliation is in progress), a Registered Member of the Philippine National Volunteer Service Coordinating Agency of the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA), registered as a Youth Serving Institution under the auspices of the National Youth Commission. It is a recognized NGO on youth empowerment and development by the Charter for Compassion, Harvard University Alumni Association of the Philippines, Ngee Ann Polytechnic of Singapore, Department of Youth and Sports, Brunei Darussalam and the Berg Institute, along with the recognition from the Department of Education, and Commission on Higher Education. It has empowered more than 200,000 youths and teachers in all its programs and activities in the Philippines and the ASEAN region.

The Palawan State University (PSU) is a government-funded university in Puerto Princesa, Palawan, Philippines. The Palawan State University, the first state university in Palawan and in Region IV, traces its humble beginnings to the teacher training institution known as Palawan Teacher's College (PTC), which was established through Republic Act 4303 on March 2, 1965. Then Congressman Gaudencio Abordo sponsored the bill establishing the college at the then municipality of Puerto Princesa.

The creation of PTC was in response to the need of additional teachers in the province since most of the available educators at that time came from Luzon; and only a handful were willing to be assigned in far-flung areas of the province. Funded by an initial half-a-million pesos, the university opened night classes to 101 students under the tutelage of 10 faculty members, and 16 support staffs, using four borrowed classrooms from state-funded Palawan National High School.

Its first president was Dr. Walfrido Ponce de Leon, and five different presidents since. The early days of the institution as a teacher's College saw its thrust focused solely on education degree. Years later however, the school added new curriculum to address the province's other educational needs. In 1984, then Minister of Natural Resources Teodoro Peña sponsored the transition of Palawan Teacher's College to Palawan State College by virtue of Batas Pambansa Blg. 797, allowing for the university to offer courses in the Art, Sciences and Technology.

Dr. Heracleo Lagrada succeeded Dr. Ponce de Leon as president in 1985 and a year later succeeded by Prof. Paterno Bruselas. In 1991, Dr. Teresita Salva became its fourth president, with the institution championing the cause of being the "Place for Social Change." After her term, Dr. Salva would return for another tenure in 1999 until her retirement in 2011.

Palawan State University (PSU) has two major campuses: the Manalo Campus, where the Laboratory Elementary School, Graduate School and School of Law are, and the Main Campus in Tiniguiban Heights, which houses the administration building, the colleges, the Laboratory High School, and the physical plant offices. In addition, a number of extramural studies and programs are being offered in the Palawan State University's College of Community Resources and Development (CCRD) in rural campuses of Rizal, Narra, Quezon, Aramaywan, Quezon, Palawan, Araceli, Brooke's Point, San Vicente, Cuyo, Coron, Balabac, Roxas, Taytay, El Nido, Linapacan, San Rafael, Sofronio Española, Dumaran and Bataraza.
